

NTST684 (2-3)

Judaism and the New Testament

1. The Jewish background of the New Testament
2. The Jewish background of the New Testament
3. The Jewish background of the New Testament

NTST689 (2-3)

Seminar in New Testament Backgrounds and Christian Origins

1. The Jewish background of the New Testament
2. The Jewish background of the New Testament
3. The Jewish background of the New Testament

LANGUAGES

NTST551 (2)

Beginning Greek

1. The Jewish background of the New Testament
2. The Jewish background of the New Testament
3. The Jewish background of the New Testament

THEOLOGY

OTST520 (2-3)

Theology of the Old Testament

This course examines the theological themes and concepts of the Old Testament, including the covenant, the law, and the prophetic tradition. It explores the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament, and the role of the Old Testament in the development of Christian theology.

OTST620 (2-3)

Seminar in Old Testament Theology

This seminar provides an in-depth study of Old Testament theology, focusing on the theological themes and concepts of the Old Testament. It explores the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament, and the role of the Old Testament in the development of Christian theology.

OTST627 (2-3)

Jewish Life and Thought

This course explores the life and thought of the Jewish people, including their history, culture, and religious practices. It examines the role of the Jewish people in the development of Christian theology, and the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament.

OTST835 (3)

Theology of the Hebrew Scriptures

This course examines the theological themes and concepts of the Hebrew Scriptures, including the covenant, the law, and the prophetic tradition. It explores the relationship between the Hebrew Scriptures and the New Testament, and the role of the Hebrew Scriptures in the development of Christian theology.

OTST845 (3)

Methodology in Biblical Theology

This course explores the methodology of biblical theology, including the historical-critical method, the literary-critical method, and the theological method. It examines the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament, and the role of the Old Testament in the development of Christian theology.

OTST945 (3)

Seminar in Biblical Theology

This seminar provides an in-depth study of biblical theology, focusing on the theological themes and concepts of the Old Testament and the New Testament. It explores the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament, and the role of the Old Testament in the development of Christian theology.

HISTORY AND ARCHAEOLOGY

OTST510 (2-3)

Archaeology and the Bible

This course explores the relationship between archaeology and the Bible, including the historical-critical method, the literary-critical method, and the archaeological method. It examines the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament, and the role of the Old Testament in the development of Christian theology.

OTST514 (2-3)

Bible Lands and Their Explorations

This course explores the history and archaeology of the Bible lands, including the historical-critical method, the literary-critical method, and the archaeological method. It examines the relationship between the Old Testament and the New Testament, and the role of the Old Testament in the development of Christian theology.

OTST945 (3)

OTST945

OTST625 (2-3)
Biblical Hebrew III

OTST639 (2-3)
Studies in Old Testament Exegesis

OTST654 (2-3)
Biblical Aramaic

OTST680 (2-3)
Seminar in Old Testament Exegesis

OTST658 (2-3)
Seminar in Ancient Near Eastern Languages

OTST685 (2-3)
Principles of Hermeneutics

OTST660 (2-3)
Readings in the Septuagint

OTST940 (3)
Seminar in Advanced Old Testament Exegesis

HEBREW/ARAMAIC EXEGESIS

OTST545 (2-3)
Daniel

OTST550 (3)
Prophets/Writings

OTST565 (3)
Pentateuch

OTST626 (2-3)
Seminar in Classical Jewish Literature

OTST628 (2-3)
Principles and Methods of OT Exegesis